I'm in love with good functional design

I'm Sumit. an final year undergrad student pursuing bachelors in computer science at KIIT University in Bhubaneswar.

I have always self-learnt things and have perfected my skills by working on things and learning from mistakes. I move fast, have a great eye for detail and a zeal for perfection in everything I do. I have over 6+ years of freelance experience.

I have previously worked with startups like GSF India, RidingO, Retention.ai, Gogosu.com, etc where I applied my technical and informational and generated great value for the company.

But what makes you special?

- I Self-learnt LAMP stack and built a fully functional social networking website in 10th Grade.

- Then taught myself Photoshop & UI design. Have since then worked with over 30+ clients from 15+ countries on over 40+ projects. Got my first international freelance gig in 11th grade.

- Was 1 of 4 students selected nationally to be mentored by GSF accelerator and its wide network of founders and investors and work alongside its 2013 batch of companies.

- Was 1 of 2 students selected to pursue a paid offshore engineering internship in Cambodia. All expenses were borne by the company. During the internship I Self-learnt node.js and electron framework to build a fast and versatile desktop data entry software that is used by over 60+ operators to store 100k+ transaction records daily.

- Increased the paid registrations at KIIT Internship Camp to over 300% in 12 hours by means of targeted digital marketing & worked with a team of <5 and collectively amassed a sponsorship of 18+ Lakhs during KIIT Fest 2017.

I'm still not convinced
How can you provide value to us?

I believe I that my vast past experience of working with clients from more than 15 countries around the world let me contribute to more than one department, I can design UI/UX, develop Web, Mobile & Desktop apps & consult clients as well. Also, all my past experience working in various startups has provided me a clear insight on how a company functions, thus I will have no problem in mixing up with others and transition smoothly into the role. I also have experience in working and handling leadership positions for various initiatives & events at university level. I have previously lead design, operations, tech & crisis handling teams for 5+ events of combined >50,000 footfall.

Though I love design & development, I consider myself as more of a startup generalist. I have previously dabbled in various roles such as Business Dev, Coding, Operations, Consulting and more at the various startups I have worked with. Given a chance, I can handle multiple roles and tackle challenges across all domains. I am a self learner and have always loved solving problems.

I have worked with the following Tools, Frameworks & Languages in the past.

Languages

Frameworks

I'm partially convinced but
Why would I just believe you?

You don't have to. Hear it from the people I've worked with before.

It was pleasure leading Sumit and his team for 2 consecutive terms, they exceeded all my expectations, everytime. Would highly recommend him to everyone else. If you have a problem, he will find you a way, somehow."
